Employment Type:	In accordance with letter of offer
Hours of Work:	In accordance with letter of offer Shift work, including weekends, and on-call may be required

Position Summary

As a Peer Worker with Flourish Australia’s Resolve program, your own life experience of a mental health issue and personal recovery will provide a distinct advantage as you mentor and support people with lived experience of a mental health issue.

A Peer Worker uses this lived experience openly, appropriately and effectively to build professional relationships with the people they support that also have a lived experience of a mental health issue. You will also use your lived experience to inform and contribute to staff learning, service understanding, and delivering person-led, strengths focused, recovery based language, documentation, training and actions.

You will use your lived experience to work as an advocate on an individual basis and possibly systemically (as required). The reciprocity that builds between peer workers and the people they support will be respected and encouraged however careful handling of professional boundaries is also expected.

- All Peer Workers innately use their personal lived experience of a mental health issue to:
- Effectively and appropriately hold crucial conversations with people who access our services in order to connect with, support them and build reciprocity and mutual understanding, trust and shared experience.
 - Ensure the person they are supporting feel accepted and appreciated.
 - Help the person take on responsibilities.
 - Effectively and appropriately guide and support each individual in their recovery and are strengths, ability and possibility focused.
 - Effectively model hope and recovery.
 - Effectively model citizenship and connectedness.
 - Effectively support the people who access our service to build their own hope.
 - Effectively contribute to the decreasing stigma and discrimination around having a lived experience of a mental health issue.
 - Support people in their recovery while ensuring they are the leads in their own recovery.
 - Support people who access the service to embrace self-advocacy.
 - With the person’s consent, appropriately and effectively advocate for individuals.
 - Appropriately and effectively carry out systemic advocacy.
 - Support the person to make links to the community that meet their recovery wants and needs.
 - Continue to support people who have entered into the workforce and education.
 - Mentor and encourage other staff in ways to support people in person-led recovery.
 - Support the person to access activities and opportunities that promote independence.
 - Promote positive self-care strategies, enrich social and living skills, increase vocational competence and access to education and training, and improve community integration.

- Encourage shared learning experiences.
- Support skill development at every opportunity through self-directed learning, information, training and education.
- Listen to and support the people to create opportunities and activities that meet their interests and goals.
- Work with integrity and within the ethos and value systems of peer support.
- Utilise responsible strategies to maintain personal recovery and continue building on one's own recovery.
- Support dignified risk taking.
- Have a strong work ethic which promotes and earns the respect of the other team members, in the person themselves, and in the peer work profession as a whole.
- Not build reciprocity of victimhood but rather reciprocity of empowerment.
